Cavin Takes Top Gun Award

by Senior Master Sgt. Kendra Owenby, 134th ARW Public Affairs

Tech. Sgt. Scott Cavin, 134th aircrew flight equipment journeyman, was recently named winner of the 2018 Phil A. Chockley Top Gun Award for the Tennessee Army and Air National Guard.

The award is presented to the Soldier or Airman with the highest combined pistol and rifle overall scores for the year at the state level. Only shooters who have earned Excellence in Competition (EIC) points through prior competitions are eligible for the award. Cavin has earned 30 rifle and 26 pistol EIC points, various other awards in individual and team competitions, and has been shooting for the Tennessee National Guard State Team since 2011.

The award was presented at the 2018 TAG Rifle Match held Aug. 24-26, at the Volunteer Training Site, Tullahoma, Tennessee. The TAG Match is held annually at the VTS and is a marksmanship proficiency training exercise/competition open to all Army and Air guardsmen across the state. Winners of the matches at state level are invited to compete at regional and ultimately federal level competitions.

Hartley becomes the 11th commander to lead the 134th ARW. He is a command pilot with more than 6,800 flying hours and has 27 years of service. Since 1997 he has assumed several pilot and command positions within the Wing. He has flown over 60 combat missions in support of operations Enduring and Iraqi Freedom, Freedom Sentinel, and Inherent Resolve. Hartley received a bachelor of science degree in engineering mechanics from the Air Force Academy and a master of business administration degree from Liberty University, Virginia.

Hartley is not the only Airman assuming a new leadership position within the Tennessee National Guard. Col. Bobby Underwood, who was previously the 134th Operations Group commander, will work alongside Hartley as the Wing's vice commander.

Cauthen, who has led the unit for the past seven years, will continue his military career as director of staff-air at Tennessee's Joint Force Headquarters in Nashville. Cauthen said he hopes the Airmen of the Wing will remember him as a servant leader and someone who isn't afraid to get his hands dirty.

"It's been an honor and a privilege to be a member of this Wing," said Cauthen. "The work ethic is strong here, and there's a good sense of family. Our people have a desire and a willingness to do what's necessary to be the best, and that's the foundation established by the original members of our Wing."

Hartley acknowledged the legacy of success Cauthen has passed down and he knows that he, along with the 134th Airmen, will be able to continue the Wing's legacy.

"Success is a team sport," said Hartley. "We've got the greatest Airmen in the world here. I'm confident they'll be able to continue our mission and meet any changes that may come our way."

Social Media Security:

By: TSgt Adam Huskey

* Be cautious about posting personal information in profiles. Details such as your Title, Organization, Duties, Travel Schedules and Locations may be used by hackers for social engineering or email spear-phishing purposes.

* Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and other social media platforms are invaluable tools for networking purposes. However, they can introduce a variety of cybersecurity hazards to include release of unauthorized data, damage to reputations, opportunities for social engineering, as well as lawsuits stemming from inappropriate use. When using these tools, be mindful of these risks.

* Social media users often consider such sites as a means for personal expression, but if used inappropriately, they can also pose a risk to the mission and your organization.

* Users have to be extra vigilant about friending bogus Facebook accounts, which can allow hackers to harvest sensitive user photos, phone numbers, and email addresses for social engineering attacks.

New DoD policy bars GPS-enabled devices in deployed settings

WASHINGTON — Deployed service members are going to have to ditch their “geolocation devices” in response to a new memo from Deputy Defense Secretary Patrick M. Shanahan. This includes physical fitness aids, applications in phones that track locations, and other devices and apps that pinpoint and track the location of individuals.

“Effective immediately, Defense Department personnel are prohibited from using geolocation features and functionality on government and nongovernment-issued devices, applications and services while in locations designated as operational areas,” Pentagon spokesman Army Col. Robert Manning III told Pentagon reporters Monday.

Deployed personnel are in “operational areas,” and commanders will make a determination on other areas where this policy may apply.

The market for these devices has exploded over the past few years, with many service members incorporating them into their workout routines. They use the devices and applications to track their pace, running routes, calories burned and more. These devices then store the information and upload it to central servers where it can be shared with third parties. That information can present enemies with information on military operations.
